nates. His views on the outlook follow:

"Much has been said concerning the betterment of vandaville and much has been done by all managers in this important branch of the theater, to improve the material they offer their patrons, until today the composite form of amusement seems to have reached a climatic period in its deviopment," said Mr. Beck yesterday. "Looking over the programmes and bookings for the approaching season, and with an intimate knowledge of the offerings we control exclusively, I do not hesitate to inderse the belief of my associate, M. Moyerfield, who said, when he returned from Europe recently: 'The coming season looks like a banner one for the Orpheum circuit of theaters."

"Mr. Moyerfield had just left London, where the European offices of the Orpheum had been installed to be closely in touch with Mr. Butt, Mr. De Feco and the other directors of the newly formed Variety Theaters Controlling company; he had personally seen most of the foreign importations for 1910-11; had studied the advantages we gain by international co-operation, and he knew that conditions in American vaudeville circles never looked more promising. That is why Mr. Meyerfield the conservative made the statement he did."
